閱讀下文，回答第41~45題

In May 1927, Charles Lindbergh became the first person to fly non-stop across the Atlantic Ocean from New York to Paris. This was a milestone in aviation history. In the years before his epic journey, Lindbergh had made hundreds of air-mail delivery flights from St. Louis to many parts of the United States. It was during one of these flights that he invented the idea of flying solo across the Atlantic. Flying alone in all kinds of weather, he believed he could do what no one else had been able to do successfully. He named his aircraft the Spirit of St Louis and supervised every detail of production and testing before the flight. Extra fuel tanks had to be fitted, which made the aircraft very difficult to fly. It was so extremely uncomfortable, because the cockpit was small and cramped. But, Lindbergh was an aviator with immense courage and determination, who refused to give in to fatigue on the long thirty-three and a half hour flight to Paris. The Spirit of St Louis is now permanent display in the National Air and Space Museum in Washington. Aviation has come a long way since Lindbergh's groundbreaking flight.

41. What is the best title for the article?
(A) No Pains No Gains (B) Introduction of Aviation History
(C) The Way to Be A Good Aviator (D) Lindbergh, The Great Aviator

42. What is displayed in the National Air and Space Museum?
(A) Charles Lindbergh's aircraft (B) The statue of Charles Lindbergh
(C) The record of the story (D) The map of the United States
43. How many stops did Charles Lindbergh drop by when he flew from New York to Paris?
(A) Once (B) Twice
(C) None (D) Countless
44. The article implies that Lindbergh was
(A) reckless and careless. (B) ambitious and strong willed.
(C) determined and independent. (D) lazy and negligent.
45. In line 9, the word "immense" means
(A) massive. (B) miniature. (C) great. (D) enormous.

A word first coined in 1918, but rarely used today, may become a more frequently used part of the English lexicon. That word is "hangry," which is a combination of the words "hungry" and "angry". It means to be bad tempered or irritable as a result of hunger. The word is making a comeback because of research that suggests "hanger" is a diagnosable feeling. Researchers believe "hangriness" could be a genuine medical phenomenon. Scientists from the UK's Anglia Ruskin University examined how hunger affects emotions during our daily lives. Lead author Professor Viren Swami said the research indicated a strong link between hunger and feelings of anger, irritability, or low pleasure.

The researchers analyzed data from 64 volunteers aged between 18 and 60. The participants had to complete surveys on a smartphone app five times a day for 21 days. The app helped people to give researchers real-time information on their feelings when they were hungry. Dr. Swami explained this provided a "meaningful" link between hunger and emotions. He said that the results of the study suggested that the experience of being hangry is real. He added: "We show, for the first time in a non-laboratory setting, that feeling hungry is associated with greater anger, irritability and lower levels of pleasure." He suggested that if people knew they were hangry, they could control their anger better.

46. What is the main idea of this passage?
(A) Researchers can help us control our anger.
(B) Participating in surveys can be meaningful.
(C) There is a link between anger and hunger.
(D) It's interesting to make a new word by combining more words together.
47. What might people be able to control if they understand hanger?
(A) Their pleasure (B) Their desire (C) Their anger (D) Their sorrows

48. What does the word “coined” mean in the first paragraph?
- (A) To earn money
  - (B) To invent a new word or expression
  - (C) To break something apart
  - (D) To use small, round piece of metal as money
49. According to the passage, what is hunger linked to, besides anger?
- (A) Irritability
  - (B) Delusion
  - (C) Satisfaction
  - (D) Low pleasure
50. Which of the following is Not true?
- (A) The word "hangry" is made up of the words "hungry" and "angry."
  - (B) A coin with the word "hangry" was made in 1918.
  - (C) Data from an app was sent to researchers after 24 hours.
  - (D) Survey participants said there were hungry about five times a day.
